1- Introduction

Since the creation of blockchain technology over a decade ago, crypto-currencies and their applications have been among the top topics in the technology and finance industry.

In addition to the growth in value, the number of participants in the crypto-currency market is growing exponentially, according to a study conducted between 2018 and 2020, the number of crypto-currency users has increased from 35 million to 101 million, which is a growth of 188%.

Africa has become a promised land for digital technologies in recent years. Nevertheless, the continent suffers from a huge inequality between populations due to the lack of information on the problems that technology can solve.

Confronted with the weakness of their self-financing capacities, companies have increased their debts to invest in recent years, according to a study conducted by Frederic Schaeffer, the correspondent of Les Echos in Shanghai, he demonstrates : An "incentive to debt" at the expense of equity that "reinforces the dependence of companies on the banking sector and increases their exposure to possible destabilization of the financial sector.

This is why we are working to make IDPD a universal token that would solve the majority of the problems that encompass the continent, as an instrument of payment or exchange with low transaction costs we have a mission to be a reliable value in the eyes of our investors, a digital currency used to facilitate financial movements in a decentralized way.
